

We are...streamlined

When you set up an account with Allied, you can opt for on-line invoicing. With this option you are alerted via e-mail when your invoice is ready to view. Click on the hyperlink to go straight to your account location. Now enter your username and password and you're ready to enjoy the benefits of Allied's on-line accounts.

Everything you need to effectively manage your transport costs is there at your fingertips. Your current account as well as an individual 'library' of the previous 13 weeks invoices is accessible and can be searched, broken down and exported as Excel spreadsheets by whatever column headings you determine - internal cost centre, state office, priority level, customer account number; we will work with you at the outset to structure your invoicing to deliver the most effective accountability for your company.

You can also verify information of individual deliveries via the POD - or Proof of Delivery link. This allows you to obtain name and delivery time for courier and taxi-trucks or, in the case of overnight express freight, site the actual delivery receipt complete with recipient's name and signature. Should you need clarification of a particular entry, just click on the e-mail link to be put in direct contact with your credit support officer.

Allied will work hand-in-hand with your people to deliver highly functional accounting outcomes for your business. And while the array of tools available to us is extensive, the result comes down to a single point - dealing with Allied delivers a flexibility in billing and invoicing that allows you to monitor and control your transport costs better than ever before.

Proudly Australian Fiercely Independent

ALLIED
EXPRESS